How much energy do each of your chakras have?

How balanced is your aura? Are you giving too much energy?

How balanced are your body, mind and spirit?

7 Chakra Analysis

What Is A Chakra?

Many ancient cultures speak of power points in the body. The biggest and most important of these energy centers are referred to as chakras. Energy both enters and leaves the body through these centers.

These energy centers express their state through the endocrine glands which correspond with the location of each chakra. So for example if there is a certain colour in your aura, the appropriate hormone is being made to elicit a certain emotion. And so on . . .

A Brief Explanation

Kirlian photography is named after Samyon Kirlian, a Russian scientist who in 1937 found colorful streaks radiating from a double exposed photograph of his hand. Kirlian accidentally took the photograph of his hand and discovered a unique process for seeing a person's energy state.

Our device incorporates Kirlian photography with bio-feedback and computer technology to measure a person's electromagnetic energy field - more commonly known as a person's aura. Your aura is a reflection of your emotional, spiritual and physical wellbeing . . . or not wellbeing. The person places their hand on a hand-pad which takes electrical measurements from their hand and sends them to a computer program which then interprets them and generates a picture of the person's aura.

People really like to see what their aura looks like and find out what the colours in their aura mean.

Here are a few examples of what colours can mean:

- Violet can indicate grief, an intuitive ability, or a trusting individual.
- Orange means that an individual is artistic.
- Blue can show peace, loyalty, trust and contentment.
- Yellow means an individual is spontaneous and optimistic.
- Black spots mean there are energy blockages from past hurts or traumas.

Alcohol, drugs, tobacco and other addictive substances can stress the aura as well. This results in energy drains.

The aura program does not diagnose illnesses but counsels people about what the colours in their aura mean and what they could change to "get past the negatives" in their life. The way to maintain a strong healthy aura is to have a positive attitude and a healthy body.

Charges are $30 per report that includes your aura photograph with your chakra centers or your face in the photo, and 5 page print out analysis of the picture colors and positions.

Our clients come from all walks of life, many who return for regular aura checkups.
